SEARCH STARTS FOR FARM LOAN BONDS. MISSING

Securities Disappear While
In Process of Manufacture It Is Said

SLEUTHS ON CASE No Chance for Government to Lose From Shortage It Is Believed

Washington, July 10.—Investigation by treasury secret service agents has revealed the actual disappearance of $100,000 of federal farm loan bonds in process of manufacture at the bureau of engraving and printing, Chief Moran announced.

Irregularities in the bureau have been the subject of almost continuous investigation for more than a year. Reports of serious losses were so persistent that the president at one time took a hand in the situation. By executive order the administration of the big money making plant was changed over night and thirty-odd employees dropped. No adequate explanation of the necessity for such drastic action was ever made. Secretary Mellon passed the incident over with the statement that losses to the government would not be of any "great magnitude."

The loss of the farm loan bonds has brought forth the first official suggestion that government securities actually have been carted away from the bureau. It was at first believed the discrepancy was due to an error in bookkeeping. Secret service agents and treasury accountants, however, were set to work on the case and a careful check was made. The records were found to be correct and the bonds actually missing. What became of them has not been cleared up.

There is one theory that the bonds may have been destroyed as spoilage and no accounting made of them. The secret service chief, however, is more inclined to the theory they were actually carried away.

There is no chance for the government to lose from this shortage, it is declared, as the bonds were in an unfinished state, were not numbered and did not bear coupons on which interest could be collected. They could not be presented for redemption under 25 years, even with forged numbers and signatures. A person holding them might possibly be able to use them as supposed collateral on which to secure a loan from some unsuspecting banker or money lender. Bankers, however, are usually too cautious for such a fraud to succeed.

OFFICER RESENTED PASTOR'S ATTENTION TO WIFE—FIGHTS

Attacks Boston Minister
Because He Took Wife
Motoring

Boston, July 10.—Resenting attentions to his wife of two months, Lieutenant Wesley M. Hague of the United States navy whipped the Rev. George L. Paine, who had married them, in Paine's office here. Lieutenant Hague then tipped his hat to the minister's typist, apologized for his roughness and backed out.

Rev. Mr. Paine later admitted that he had recently asked Mrs. Hague to go motoring. He then took her to his home in Cambridge. He said his attentions were merely paternal.

As Lieutenant Hague walked into his office the minister extended his hand, but the officer ignored it and shot his fist to the Rev. Mr. Paine's jaw, knocking him down. Rev. Mr. Paine is executive secretary of the Boston Federation of Churches and is a son of the late Robert Treat Paine and a descendant of one of the signers of the Declaration of Independence. He is married and has two sons.

CONTINUE SEARCH FOR MISSING FLYER

Port Stanley, Ontario, July 10.—Intensive search by air and water craft has failed today to reveal the body of Lieutenant T. H. Null, who, it is conceded, perished Thursday, when the naval balloon A-6698 was wrecked on Lake Erie.

The body of Lieutenant Louis J. Roth, Lieutenant Null's companion, which was found dead of exposure, lashed to the balloon basket on the lake, was taken to Cleveland last night by Lieutenant T. H. Strong, on the seaplane Nine of the Aero Marine Ways. The body will be sent from there to the home of Roth's parents at Cedar Rapids.

PERSONNEL OF U. S. ARMY WILL BE REDUCED TO 90,000 MEN

Nation to Have Smallest Armed Force in Proportion to Population of Any Recognized Country in the World—Losing Many Men.

Washington, July 10.—Within the next six months the personnel of the United States army will be reduced to less than 90,000 men—the smallest armed force in proportion to population of any recognized country in the world—War Department officials revealed to International News Service today.

When this estimated minimum is reached on January 1, 1924, America will have fewer men under arms than beaten, demoralized Germany, which, when "disarmed" by General Foch, was left with an army of 100,000 men.

Although Congress, at its last session, capitulated to the extent of authorizing a standing army of 125,000—as between the 115,000 figure favored by the lawmakers and the 150,000 urged by Secretary Weeks—legislation enacted at the same time now threatens to make the military establishment incapable of performing its routine duties, according to members of the general staff.

The army, at present, is losing between 1,000 and 1,500 men a month. By the end of the year it is estimated that approximately 74,000 men will have been discharged, in

BONDS DELIVERED TO U. S. TREASURY BY BRITISH OFFICER

Text of English Debt Funding Contract is Made Public

Washington, July 10.—The treasury made public the text of the $4,600,000 debt funding contract entered into between the United States and the British governments, as executed on June 18 by Ambassador Geddes for the British and the following day by Secretary Mellon for this country.

The British government last week delivered to the treasury 1,000 bonds of $4,600,000 denominations each dated Dec. 15, 1922, and maturing Dec. 15, 1984, covering the 62-year period of the funding arrangement. The bonds bear 3 per cent interest the first 10 years and 3½ per cent thereafter.

The contract provides that the bonds shall be payable in United States gold coin or its equivalent in gold bullion, or at the option of Great Britain, not less than 30 days advance notice, in any bonds of the United States issued after April 6, 1917, the bonds to be taken at par and accrued interest.

Upon not less than 30 days advance notice Great Britain may at its option pay up to one-half of any interest accruing up to Dec. 15, 1927, in British bonds maturing Dec. 15, 1984.

The first interest payment under the funding plan was made by the British on June 15, three days before the contract was executed, in United States liberty bonds.

Principal and interest of all bonds issued by Great Britain on this funding account shall be exempt from all British taxation, so long as they are held by the United States or any non-resident of the United Kingdom. Annual payments follow the schedule laid down in the act of congress last February, authorizing the debt settlement these ranging from $23,000,000 in 1923 and 1924, to $175,000,000 in 1933 and 1934.

TO TAKE ACTION AGAINST CHAMBER

Columbus, July 10.—Action against the Cleveland Chamber of Commerce in Federal Court will be taken by the Prisoners' Relief Society of Washington unless statements alleged to have been made by the commercial organization derogatory to the society are retracted or explained.

This statement was made by E. E. Dudding, president of the society here today on his way to Cleveland. With Attorney Raymond Neudecker of Washington, he will investigate the allegations.

Dudding asserted the society lost comment made by the Cleveland Chamber of Commerce.

ALIEN SEAMEN DESERTING SHIPS

Washington, July 10.—Department of labor experts entered upon the task of drafting regulations to deal with the problem presented by alien seamen entering the United States in violation of the immigration act of February, 1917. Thousands of these men have left their ships at American ports and have never returned aboard. High wages and the demand for labor have proved a lure too strong to be resisted.

The body of Lieutenant Louis J. Roth, Lieutenant Null's companion, which was found dead of exposure, lashed to the balloon basket on the lake, was taken to Cleveland last night by Lieutenant T. H. Strong, on the seaplane Nine of the Aero Marine Ways. The body will be sent from there to the home of Roth's parents at Cedar Rapids.

Russell R. Haines Expert Aviator Meets Death in Plane Crash in Columbus

Flyer, Well Known in Xenia, Crushed to Death When Craft Drops 500 Feet at Norton Flying Field, Monday Evening—Had Student Aviator With Him at the Time of Accident.

Russell R. Haines, 29, expert aviator, of Columbus, son of Mrs. Alice Haines, of near Paintersville, died as the result of injuries, received when the plane, in which he was instructing Ernest Rhoads, Columbus garage owner to fly, crashed to earth near Norton Field, Columbus, at eight o'clock, Monday night.

Rhoads was pitched from the cockpit, when the ship hurtled 500 feet to the ground, and died in a hospital later.

The accident was witnessed by Attorney and Mrs. L. Q. Jordan, of Wilmington, parents of Mrs. Haines, who were enroute to Orchard Island, when they stopped at the flying airfield.

The overturned Curtiss plane, sank in the mud of a hay field, near Yearling road, just off East Main Street, Columbus. The ship was righted and Haines was found Cleveland Avenue, Columbus, is surprised beneath the wreckage. He died on the way to Grant Hospital.

Rhoads died at 10:30 o'clock. His head and skull were fractured and he was unconscious in his plane. His wife was formerly Miss Mildred Jordan of Wilmington, and the couple was well known here. Mrs. Haines is a niece of Mrs. W. O. Custis of South Detroit Street.

Haines was a graduate of the Ohio State University, and held a rating of expert flier while first Lieutenant in the air service. He was stationed at San Diego, California, during the war, where he served as instructor.

Besides his wife, a three-year-old son, Jordan, survives, with his mother, Mrs. Alice Haines of near Paintersville, and three brothers and three sisters.

Experts explain that the ship used, known as the JN-4 was equipped with dual controls and seated two. Haines, in the back seat evidently was teaching Rhoads the "feel" of the ship by permitting him to note movement of the "joy stick."

PROSPERITY PLACES MORE CURRENCY IN CIRCULATION NOW

Over 300 Millions Additional Used During the Year Just Past

Washington, July 10.—Business prosperity has brought $336,000,000 additional currency into circulation during the past year, the Federal Reserve Board said today. The demand for new currency has been increasing at the rate of $1,000,000 a day.

Larger payrolls and full time employment for labor is one of the chief reasons for the larger currency volume. One half the increased money in circulation represents growth in the circulation of gold and gold certificates. One third of the increase is due to additions to the federal reserve notes. Of the total increase in money only $42,000,000 represents a net addition to federal reserve currency.

The inflow of gold which amounted to $227,000,000 in the past 12 months largely accounts for the growth. Two thirds of that sum was added to circulation, and one third was credited in reserve balances of member banks of the reserve system.

Immediately following the completion of the commission's report, John Hays Hammond left for his summer home at Gloucester, Mass. This week he will be joined there by Commissioners Marshall, Howell and Smith, where they will put in a fortnight working on the final report of their bituminous coal investigation. Meanwhile Commissioners Neil and Devine will go on a tour of investigation of the bituminous mining conditions in the west.

DAUGHERTY DENIES
CUSHING CHARGE

Columbus, July 10.—Attorney General Harry M. Daugherty was brief today in commenting on the charge of George H. Cushing that the report of the United States coal commission had been doctored.

"As to my alleged action in connection with this report, I will say I do not know who George Cushing is," the attorney general said.

"I have never discussed the report of the coal commission with anybody. I have never seen a copy of the report. In fact I do not know that a report in any form has been prepared and issued by the coal commission."

Negro to Die in Chair.

Columbus, July 10.—James Welsch, 34, colored, of Columbus, will be electrocuted at the Ohio penitentiary early Friday morning for the murder of his mother-in-law, Mary Hayes, on Nov. 24, 1922. No appeal for commutation of sentence has been made.

SPECTACULAR FIRE
COSTS ONE MILLION

Los Angeles Cal., July 10.—Threatening the entire Signal Hill oil district and illuminating the country for miles around, fire raged early today in the Gilmore Refining Company holdings near Long Branch. Reports were that the entire plant had been wiped out and damage was estimated at $1,000,000.

This was the second blaze of large proportions in the Signal field within a week.

WOMAN HELD IN DEATH OF PRINCE

London, July 10.—Prince Alykameh Fahm Bey, Egyptian noble, was shot and killed early today in his luxurious suite in the Hotel Savoy.

The prince was shot through the head.

Police arrested a beautiful French woman, who is supposed to be the prince's wife. She was richly dressed and jeweled. Though Alykameh was not able to make a statement before he died and the woman refused to talk, police believe the couple quarreled.

MRS. STANNARD TO TAKE STAND DURING TRIAL

Deposed Matron of Girls' Industrial School Ready To Testify

ISSUES DENIAL

Witnesses Tell of High Character of Supervision at School.

Delaware, O., July 10.—Mrs. Mae Stannard, deposed matron of the Girls' Industrial school was ready to go on the stand to justify her administration of affairs of the institution when the hearing before the Civil Service Commission was resumed here today.

Mrs. Stannard has demanded her reinstatement.

She was expected to describe in detail the nature of her duties as matron of the industrial school and to explain certain instances of harsh treatment of inmates that were charged against her by the state.

Miss Katherine Kennedy, employee of the Ohio Institute of Public Efficiency, testified as to a visit paid to the Delaware school by a delegation of fifty women representing corrective institutions, policewomen and juvenile court workers.

Much commendation was given to Mrs. Stannard for her conduct of the affairs of the industrial school, according to Miss Kennedy.

MURDER TRIAL AT POMEROY STARTED AS JURORS CALLED

Double Killing at Mine Camp Results In Serious Charge

Pomeroy, O., July 10.—With nine jurors temporarily seated in the box and the original venire of 36 men exhausted, a special venire of 75 men reported before Judge A. P. Miller in Common Pleas Court today in the trial of James E. Miller, charged with the first degree murder of Edward Reynolds.

The indictment grew out of the double killing at the Vulcan mine camp two months ago, when Miller shot and killed Ed Reynolds and Joe Swanson, who it is claimed, came here from West Virginia to offer him immunity from prosecution if he would return and testify in the trial of union officials now in progress at Lewisburg, growing out of the armed march of 1921.

Local miners have secured a battery of attorneys to defend Miller headed by Congressman Israel M. Foster of Athens and Fred W. Crow and C. E. Peoples, of Pomeroy.

BROKER EXPelled FROM EXCHANGE

New York, July 10.—Harvey A. Willis, head of Willis and Company, stockbrokers, was expelled from the Consolidated Stock Exchange today.

The announcement was made from the rostrum of the exchange shortly after the opening.

A statement issued by the ways and means committee of the consolidated exchange said:

"Harvey A. Willis is charged with false pretense in that on many occasions as shown by evidence, he, under cover of two opposite transactions, has nullified the effect of his clients' order by taking the transaction to his own account.

POSSE SEEKS MURDERER.

Portsmouth, O., July 10.—A posse today is combing the Kentucky hills south of Portsmouth for Millard Lewis, alleged slayer of Lester A. Philpott, 33, on the Portsmouth Ferry boat last evening. Lewis, according to reports, fired five shots into Philpott's body, then jumped into the Ohio river and swam to the Kentucky side and escaped into the hills.

OIL PRICE DROPS

Pittsburg, Pa., July 10.—The Joseph Seep Purchasing Agency here, buyers for Standard Oil, announced effective at 10 o'clock today, a reduction of 15 to 25 cents a barrel for crude oil at the wells. Eastern best grades show the biggest price cut.

REPORT INDICATES ACTIVITIES OF RECREATION BODY

Activities of the Community Recreation Association in its efforts in Xenia were set forth in a complete report of the organization made recently by Executive-Secretary, Earl Burgner.

The report included a resume of the Industrial Baseball League, showing the organization of six teams to play a ten week's schedule. Three games have already been played. The league is governed by a baseball committee consisting of the captains of various teams. A court of Last Appeal decides protests. The ball fields have been loaned for use.

The Community sings were also referred in the report. Sings are held every Saturday evening at seven o'clock in the Court House Square. Another sing is held at Willow Tree Park every Sunday evening at 6:15 o'clock. An average of 500 people attend every Saturday night and 200 on Sunday evenings.

An institution has been conducted at McKinley School twice a week for five weeks, the report shows. It purpose is to instruct playground super-visors. An average of 35 people have attended the institutes.

Three entertainments have been held at the playgrounds under the direction of the Association, according to the report. A community sing and entertainment was held June 29 at Orient Hill with Miss Hollencamp as super-visors.

The following Monday a program was held at Willow Tree Park with Miss Kiernan in charge. Employees of the Hoover and Allison company gave program the same evening. An all-day program was held Fourth of July, including baseball, games and float events ending with a community sing and patriotic speech in the evening.

The association assisted the American Legion in its flag day program at City Hall. The organization also assisted the Garden Club, Rotary and Kiwanis Clubs in cleaning up the Work Park play site.

The Association has also helped the colored residents organize their play centers and the report shows they have a playground opened and are holding their community sings and institutes.

A compilation of activities and attendance was presented by Mr. Burgner.

Total number attending playgrounds ..... 5,300
Total number attending community sings ..... 4,900
Total number attending baseball games ..... 1,000
Total number attending institutes ..... 200

Total ..... 11,400

Estimating the average number of hours at three, the total number of supervised hours to date have been 34,200.

Carl Rutledge, district representative of National Community Service talked on the future of the organization at the board meeting. He spent two days here gathering data on the Xenia organization and said he was impressed with the work to date and recommended its continuance in the winter.

SECOND HEARING OF CASE TUESDAY

Second hearing of the case of the State against Vernon DeAtley, of near Paintersville, on a charge of possessing liquor, was held in the court of Magistrate J. E. Jones Tuesday morning, the court with holding decision after the case.

DeAtley was charged with possessing liquor and was found guilty on his initial hearing. Attorney F. L. Johnson, counsel for the defendant, appealed the case charging error in the hearing proceedings and the appeal was sustained the case being remanded for a new hearing.

Attorney Johnson interjected the Ku Klux Klan into the case at the hearing Tuesday when he asked the defendant if he did not "believe prosecuting witnesses were members of that organization and if they had not burned a cross at his home and left a warning note that they would 'get him' some time ago. Objections to the question interposed by Prosecutor J. K. Williamson were sustained by the court.

The proceedings were interrupted once when Attorney Johnson turned to Dr. R. L. Haines, Paintersville County Coroner, with the allegation that the coroner was advising the prosecutor by shaking his head as the questions were asked.

EX-GOVERNOR IS RUINED BY STREET

New York, July 10.—Three times governor of North Dakota and once a presidential "dark horse," John Burke, a tall, gaunt western-looking man of 60, today is broke—ruined by Wall Street—and facing prosecution.

"I have lost everything, even my life insurance," said Burke.

He went to the district attorney and offered to waive immunity and tell the Grand Jury all he knows of the bankrupt stock brokerage firm of Kardos and Burke.

WHEN THE RUHR CRUMBLES.

The agreement that has been reached between the French military authorities in the Ruhr and the Krupps to facilitate the removal of 70,000 tons of reparation coal and coke seized last Sunday at one of the Krupps' subsidiary plants is cited by Sir Percival Phillips as "the first indication that the magnates of the Ruhr are inclined to accept the inevitable and come to terms."

This may or may not be a true diagnosis. We will have to await the events of the coming weeks. But in the meantime a strong measure of credence will be attached to Sir Percival's interpretation by all who are familiar from first-hand knowledge with present conditions in the Ruhr.

In the first place, Sir Percival Phillips is a competent and trustworthy observer. He has had a long experience with the Germans. He was on the Western front as a war correspondent from the beginning of the war and in occupied Germany for a long time after the armistice. He has been at Dusseldorf since the French went into the Ruhr and has spent his days traveling about over the whole of the occupied region. Sir Percival is, by the way, a native of Pennsylvania, who became a British subject before the war.

Further credence attaches to the report that the Ruhr industrialists are inclined toward accepting the inevitable because of the personality of Herr von Bulow, the acting head of the Krupp works, who signed the agreement with the French. Herr von Bulow has a broader outlook and a clearer vision than most Germans. He can see beyond the confines of his country. He knows other countries and other peoples and can put himself in their place in analyzing a condition or a situation. This is a rare attainment among Germans, and the lack of it accounts for much of the trouble that has come to the German people in recent years.

Herr von Bulow is a business man of the first rank. He entertains few illusions and knows realities. Before the war he was the representative of the Krupps in England. He was detained there throughout the war, and for a part of the time was interned. He is now the active head of the Krupp works, which employs, at the present moment, between 55,000 and 60,000 men. His one aim and object, as he confessed the other day, is to keep the works going and the men employed. To him and to his associates that object outweighs the outcome of any political controversy between Germany and France.

The Krupps have an immense prestige and authority not only in the Ruhr but throughout Germany. The Krupp workingmen have an esprit de corps, a solidarity and a pride in working at the Krupp plant that is not possessed by the workers for Stinnes or Thyssen, or any of the other great industrialists. It seems a safe assumption at this juncture to reason that if the Krupp management and the Krupp workers find they can work in agreement with the French that other employees and workingmen will follow the example if their business interests demand.

For weeks past intelligent opinion in Germany has recognized that the inevitable end of the Ruhr occupation was a surrender to France. They even have a phrase for it in Germany. They call it "the second surrender." The German public men who know the actual condition as it exists realize that France must save her face; that having gone so far and held on so long she cannot back down. More than one German will tell you, bitterly enough: "We have no face to save; we must give in."

This acknowledgment of the end is not common property either in Germany or in the Ruhr. The public mind has not been prepared for it. Newspapers in the Ruhr are quoted in the dispatches as saying that the Krupp directors are trying to devise means of getting coal under the French agreement by a "back-door route" without the workingman observing, as the latter have refused to work for the French occupying forces.

The whole problem as the Germans see it is when and how the end will come. They hoped for a time at the beginning that the United States and England would exercise pressure upon France. They soon came to see that we would not interfere with France, and since then they have pinned their whole hope on the possibility of help from England. A few weeks ago at Berlin they were seeking a formula that London would adopt. They sought to find some measure of settlement that the English Government would approve as a solution and publicly call upon France to accept. This dream has not yet come through.

Disapproving, as it does, the Ruhr occupation, the British Government has not yet brought itself to the point of taking sides with the Germans as against the French. All that can be said with certainty now is that a phase of the Ruhr occupation is coming to a close. It apparently can end in only one way. What will happen if and when the Germans surrender no man in Europe is wise enough to say or can peer deeply enough into the muck to see.—By Edward G. Lowry, in Public Ledger.

GEMANY: "I'M A VICTIM OF DER LATE WAR, MAAM, CAN YOU GIFT ME A LOAN?"

1903--Twenty Years Ago--1923

Mr. Eli Miller has made the announcement that he will donate the buildings and grounds on East Church Street, formerly the Xenia Female Seminary to the United Presbyterian Church to be used as an old ladies home for that denomination. While the gift has not yet been actually made it will doubtless be formally presented to the next general meeting of the church, and there is no doubt but that the gift will be accepted and the home founded.

There is no smallpox in Xenia again. The last patient has been released from the pest house and the city is free from the disease.

The first new wheat is beginning to make its appearance in Xenia markets. The crop is not as good a quality as usual.

Mr. John Bocklett, who has been conducting his machine shop in the rear of the Eavey co-op office, has moved to the new building which he has erected on W. Main Street next to the Lutz blacksmith shop.

enamel?"
Answer—Yes; the paint sticks much better if you sandpaper the furniture before applying it. It will also be smoother if you sandpaper the first coat of paint lightly before putting on the second coat.

An Interested Reader—"How can I wash a sweater without shrinking it?"

Answer—The safest way is to clean it by rinsing it out in gasoline. This does not shrink it but will clean it perfectly. Do the work out of doors, and let the sweater air several days, till the odor is gone.

Mrs. F. S.—"How can I remove machine oil from a carpet?"

Answer—Rub lard on the spot and let stand several hours, then wash the spot by rubbing it hard with a cloth sprung out of cold, soapy water. After a moment, rinse the cloth in warm, clear water and rub the carpet again. A few drops of ammonia in the water may be necessary.

Mrs. L. V. D.—"Have you a cake recipe calling for a whole pound of butter? Also kindly print a recipe for chocolate cookies."

Answer—You probably refer to the following old-fashioned Pound Cake: One pound of butter, one pound of sugar, yolks of ten eggs, whites of ten eggs, one pound of flour, one-half teaspoon of mace and two tablespoons of grape juice. Cream the butter, add the sugar gradually and continue beating; then add the egg-yolks (beaten until lemon colored) the egg-whites stiffly whipped, the flour, mace and grape juice. Beat hard for five minutes and turn into a deep, buttered pan to bake one and one-fourth hours in a very slow oven. Pound cake is seldom iced.

Chocolate Cookies—Cream together one-third cup of butter and one-half cup of sugar; add one well-beaten egg; one square of unsweetened chocolate melted, one-half teaspoon of vanilla, one and one-half tablespoons of sweet milk and one and one-half cups of pastry flour which have been sifted with one teaspoon of baking powder. (If you wish to use ordinary bread flour, use two tablespoons of cornstarch to cupful of it. This makes it more like pastry flour.) Chill the dough before rolling it out. Then roll very thin, sprinkle with chopped nuts, cut with a cookie cutter and bake eight minutes in a hot oven.

J. M. B.—"How can I remove ink from a plastered wall?"

Answer—All stationery stores sells commercial ink eradicating, which I think would be successful on the plaster. Follow the directions on the two little bottles which constitute the eradicator.

NINETY PLAYERS IN SECOND DAY OF GOLF TOURNAMENT

Inwood Country Club, Far Rockaway, N. Y., July 10.—With a stiff breeze blowing in from the ocean—a hazard which will require all the skill of perfect driving to overcome—90 players were ready to tee off today in second day's play in the national open golf championship.

Only the first 18—together with the last 18—will qualify for the finals which open Friday.

There was little of the spectacular in play so far. Favorites came through without a sensation.

Gene Sarazen, led the first day's quota with a 73 morning and a 75

afternoon—not par golf.

Play opened at 8 o'clock this morn-

Leading pairs scheduled to start today are:

Jess W. Sweetzer, of Ardsley, N. Y., and Joe Kirkwood, New York; Francis Quimet of Brookline, Mass., and John L. Black of Wichita, Kansas; Emmett E. French, Youngstown, Ohio, and Rudolph E. Kuepper, Sioux City, Iowa.

WEBB JONES TO MAKE DEBUT FOR LOCALS IN COCA COLA GAME

The Xenia Bayliffs will face one of the toughest assignments of the season at the Washington Street park Sunday afternoon when they covet in opposition to the Cincinnati Coca Colas.

Dope on the Queen City performers shows that the soft drink makers stuck out like a sore thumb in this season baseball history at Cincinnati. As crack performers, they are far from flat, and are said to pack a lively kick under their rather harmless name.

Had the Cincinnati Club turned up here earlier in the season, fans would have boasted little hope. But right now Manager Roy Bayliff is loaded for just such meat eaters as the Coca Colas profess to be. Fans admit that the club is now boasting the sweetest combination of ball tossers in this section, and they are confident that the locals can take on any of these wise cracking clubs from the cities without accepting the worst end of it.

The addition of Webb Jones was the last step in the complete reinforcement of the Bayliffs. Jones performed in right field last Sunday while he watched Curt Free get robbed of a shut out by a lucky homer after pitching a four-hit game, but Jones' correct location is in the pitcher's box.

Fans will remember this lad with the odd name as the Jones who put the Jeffersonville Tigers on the map for two years by his crack box work. Jones cannot only pitch but he is said to be an able hitter, and periodically contradicts the theory that hurriers can't hit by his ferocious swatting.

MERCHANTS MINGLE IN HOLIDAY GAME

"East is west" Wednesday afternoon on the Boy Scout diamond, Dodd's Addition, when a baseball team composed of merchants east of Detroit Street play a team composed of merchants west of Detroit Street.

The game will be played under the auspices of the Community Recreation Association and Earl Burgner, executive secretary, is making plans for the event. The contest will be played with a playground ball under the rules that governed the matches between the Kiwanis and Rotary Club games.

Teams have not been picked for the fracas yet, although any merchant in those territories will be eligible to play. The selections of positions will probably be made on the field. The game will start at one o'clock.

BROTHER AND SISTER REUNITED THROUGH HOME REUNION AFTER SEPARATION OF FORTY YEARS

The reunion of the Ex-Pupils' Association of the Ohio Soldiers' and Sailors' Orphans' Home held here last week proved the agency which reunited a brother and sister after 40 years' separation.

The 40-year search of the brother, who is Charles Birch, of Newcastle, Miller, former Home pupil at his home, ended when he found Mrs. Phoebe 42 Olive Street, Dayton. She had believed him dead.

Mrs. Miller then Miss Phoebe Birch was sent to the O. S. & O. Home by her father 45 years ago. Five years later she saw her brother, Charles, for the last time while they were visiting their aunt after their father's death. The meeting was but for a few hours.

During the 40 intervening years, Birch lost all trace of his sister, although he made repeated efforts to locate her. His search was fruitless until he attended the Home Reunion last week. There he learned from the institution records that his sister's name was Mrs. Phoebe Miller and that she lived in Dayton.

From Xenia, Birch went directly to the National Military Home, Dayton, where his sister holds a position, and attaches there told him where she lived. The meeting was a complete surprise for Mrs. Miller who had not believed any of her relatives were living. She recalled vaguely that her father had talked of her three sisters, two now dead and of her brother.

FAIR TO ECLIPSE PREVIOUS AFFAIRS BOARD ANNOUNCES

Members of the Greene County Fair Board are fast completing the arrangements for this year's exhibit July 31-August 3, which they believe will be the greatest Greene County Fair ever held. Many minor improvements about the grounds will add to the convenience and comfort of exhibitors and patrons.

One of the most important innovations is the laying out of a center field in the quarter stretch where saddle horses and all show horses will be exhibited. Displays in the center field will be held every afternoon and will add greatly to the interest of the track program. A Greene County saddle horse class will be a new feature of the saddle classes.

Changes have also been made in the race track arrangements and the speed department is anticipating an unusually fine program. All entries in this department will close July 26.

The Boys' and Girls' Club events include Poultry Clubs, Pig Clubs, Steer Calf Clubs and Stock Judging Teams. A fine list of prizes is offered in all the events. From the boys' and girls' judging live stock two teams will be selected to represent Greene County at the State Fair. One team will represent the county in the general stock judging and the other in the dairy cattle judging at Columbus. One demonstration team, consisting of two club members and the club leader from both Food and Clothing Clubs will be sent to the Ohio State Fair and expenses paid. Many of the various boys' and girls' events offer trips to Columbus for Boys' and Girls' Club Week as first prizes.

The fact that the Fair Board has built new cattle sheds and made extra provision for the stock that will be exhibited will be good news to exhibitors throughout this locality.

The various granges throughout the county are preparing for exhibits and this feature of the fair will be an important one. The grange exhibits have developed during the last few years and the friendly rivalry of the various chapters arouses interest.

New quiet accommodations and rest rooms for women, and various other new improvements about the grounds will add to the comfort and pleasure of fair patrons.

Fair Premium Books can be secured from Secretary J. Robert Bryson, and at various places about the city. Entry blanks for all classes can be secured at the office of the secretary in the basement of the Court House. The secretary's office will be open every day after July 24. Entries in all departments except the speed events will close July 29. The speed entries will close July 26.

SIMPLE DE-SEEDER IS BRAIN CHILD OF LOCAL MERCHANT AND IT WORKS

Something new under the sun! Such is the cry today and every so often the appeal is answered by the fertile mind of a thinker. Witness then the brain child of a local hardware man, who in an attempt to lighten the burden of the housewife has produced a simple but effective contraption known as a cherry seeder—and it works!

D. L. Crawford of the Baby Hardware Company demonstrated to the skeptical writer how a piece of No. 9 gauge iron wire, notched at one end would eliminate the seed from a rosy-cheeked cherry, with a simple twist of the wrist, leaving the pie ingredient in its original shape, with none of the terrible mutilation that usually accompanies the de-seeding process of the recognized type.

Mr. Crawford explained that he originated the idea several years ago, and while he has used it at his home for years he has never tried to market it because of the skepticism displayed by the average buyer, who, he says, would not believe that the simple apparatus would accomplish what it is supposed to do. It will though, you can take the writer's word for it.

The invention consists of a piece of iron wire about an eighth of an inch in diameter, some six inches long. At one end two notches at right angles to each other and nearly a quarter of an inch deep are cut with a file giving that end a forked appearance. This fork is placed against the side of the cherry opposite from the stem and pushed through with a slight twist. The seed is forced out leaving a neat hole through the center, and the cherry is slipped off the opposite end while another is made ready for the pie.

Made ready for the pie.

ASKS INVESTIGATION.

Cincinnati, O., July 10.—Although members of the motor party of which he was a member reported that Daniel McHale, 24, drowned in the Little Miami River Sunday when his companions were repairing a tire, the dead man's brother, Charles McHale, yesterday asked police to investigate, saying he suspected murder because the party had been in a fight earlier in the evening and none of the members had called to offer condolences.

WOMEN OF MIDDLE AGE

Relieved of Nervousness and Other Distressing Ailments by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Brooklyn, N. Y.—"I first took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound four years ago, and am taking it now for the Change of Life and other troubles and I receive great benefit from it. I am willing to let you use my letter as a testimonial because it is the truth. I found your booklet in my letterbox and read it carefully, and that is how I came to take the Vegetable Compound myself. It has given me quiet nerves so that I sleep all night, and a better appetite. I have recommended it already to all my friends and relatives."—Mrs. ENGLEMAN, 2032 Palmetto St., Ridgewood, Brooklyn, N. Y.

For the woman suffering from nervous troubles, causing sleeplessness, headache, hysteria, "the blues," Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will be found a splendid medicine. For the woman of middle age who is passing through the trials of that period, it can be depended upon to relieve the troubles common at that time.

Remember, the Vegetable Compound has a record of nearly fifty years of service and thousands of women praise its merit, as does Mrs. Engleman. You should give it a fair trial now.

COMMISSIONERS OF CLARK COUNTY O. K. HOSPITAL PURCHASE

A resolution favoring the purchase of the interest of Greene, Champaign and Madison Counties, in the district tuberculosis hospital at Springfield, by Clark County, was passed Monday. Action of the State Board of Health is expected to be taken in a few days, sanctioning the action.

If the State Board sanctions the purchase, a bond issue will be placed before the voters of Clark County at the November election to pay for the purchase, it is said.

In the resolution passed Monday by the Clark County Commissioners it was noted that Clark County was the most populous county in the district, and provided the greater part of the funds to maintain the hospital. The resolution read to make the purchase from the other three counties, at the figures named in the appraisement of the hospital, made June 22, by auditors of the four counties. The values of Greene, Champaign and Madison Counties' shares of the institution are: Greene, $7,965.61; Madison, 17,283.08, and Champaign, $7,963.18.

Styles BY LENORE

As the foundation of many sport frocks is the pleated skirt this season, it has happily afforded almost limitless opportunities for variety in combination with attractive blouses, and has proved an incentive to the creation of charming and very wearable blouses. Perhaps the colors most in vogue are beige, gray, white and black for the skirts but the brighter shades are equally smart besides adding attractiveness to a country landscape.

One of the blouses most popular this summer because of its adaptability

Even to difficult figures is shown in the sketch above, with its inevitable monogram and snugly fitting hips, and a becomingly cut neck line. Small loops of self-material soften the lines of the revers and give the blouse undoubted chic.

When a blouse and skirt are made of the same color, the effect may be delightfully varied by the addition of printed silk in the unusual and clever manner illustrated. This model is carried out in dark blue Georgette crepe, pleated back and front, with blue figured cherry colored crepe. It does not extend beyond the waist line in the back but is gathered instead into the girdle, which ties into a graceful bow at the side.

CALL MEETING OF ALL GUARANTORS

Guarantors for this year's Chautauqua will meet Thursday evening at 7:30 o'clock, at the headquarters of the Community Recreation Association, East Main Street, according to Harper C. Pendry, chairman of the committee in charge.

A report of the ticket sales to date will be made at the meeting, and plans for the final drive to dispose of tickets will also be prepared. People selling tickets are requested to report their success to Miss Fannie K. Haynes before Wednesday.

WOMEN MEMBERS OF CLUB WILL MEET

A date for the official season's opening of the Xenia Country Club will probably be set at a meeting of the women members of the organization to be held at the club house Wednesday afternoon at four o'clock.

Secretary W. C. Craig will address the meeting and will attempt to launch an organization among the women with the view of arranging handicaps for tournaments which are held from time to time during the summer. It is probable that plans will be laid for a ladies' day at the club once a week.

TO ENTER SEMINARY.

Russell Linton, of Bowersville, who graduated this year as honor man in a class of 42 from Wilmington College, will enter Hartford Theological Seminary, Hartford, Conn., according to an announcement recently made. Shortly after his graduation from college young Mr. Linton was elected to the position of principal of the High School at Kingman, Chester Township, Clinton County. When he completed his plans to enter the seminary he resigned the teaching place.

So it is with money. The dollar can be overworked. During brief periods it can be forced to yield more than a safe, economic rate. But the wise owner of money knows it is better to ask for only a safe yield, a yield that may be accepted with no misgivings, a yield that requires no continuous argument to prove that it is justifiable.

HOPE OF PERMANENT PEACE SLIGHT SAYS SENATOR FESS IN ADDRESS TO LEGION

There can be no hope for permanent peace, though a general opinion will lead to war. I have quoted reasons against war will do much to pre-tired Admiral Fiske as saying it will serve peace, U. S. Senator S. D. lead to war, but I don't think so.

Fess of Yellow Springs told a small audience at the meeting of Joseph P. Fiske Post, No. 95, American Legion, here Monday night.

"Wars grow out of disputed rights and policies," said Senator Fess. "As long as there are nations, disputes will continue. All we can do is to be active in trying to minimize or lessen the chances of war." His address especially emphasized how easy it is for a nation to become involved in war and how the question often hangs on the most delicate diplomatic situations.

Personal reminiscences of trying days in Washington before and at the opening of the war, furnished the beginning of the Senator's address. He told the story of a note written to Mexico by a German cabinet minister named Zimmerman, urging that Mexico induce Japan to join Mexico and Germany in a war on the United States. The note, he said, never reached Mexico as it was overtaken by a Secret Service Agent and an Associated Press Representative.

The government was desperately concerned with the situation even before American boys were in the fighting, he said. Dr. Fess said he suggested when the conscription law was being passed that not only the fighters but capital and labor be conscripted. The question was never seriously discussed, he said, but he declared he believed now the plan should have been followed.

"I don't think there is any hope that this country will have no more wars. Wars are bound to exist," Senator Fess said. "I am glad that people are stirred up to a public opinion against wars, however. The suggestions have been made that we totally disarm. No nation like ours, would ever think of totally disarming. We should keep a police force at least—that is about all we are doing now. The last army bill calls for only 137,000 men and some of these are at the Canal Zone, some at Alaska, Hawaii and the Philippines."

Senator Fess said it had also been suggested that war never be declared except through a referendum of the people. "I don't think that is feasible," he said. It is foolish to talk about the day when there will never be war again. There was never a time when war was more apparent than now. This is due to the acute differences between Great Britain and France. These are more serious because they are economic interests in the American Legion. It may not mean so much to you now, or agreement. Nations know that if but the American Legion will in they can't respect economic force time be the most potent force that they can't rise. The interests of stands for all rights that our country and France are running has ever had. Keep up its in opposite directions. I hope never let it drag. The reason is impossible for it to lead to war son will be very apparent in ten or it would be the fatality of the 15 years," he said.

The meeting was in charge of C. Referring to the trouble the U. S. W. Murphy, Vice Commander, who at is now having over enforcing the close of Senator Fess, took him to his home in Yellow Springs, three-mile limit. Senator Fess said the business session over to Post America is claiming its rights. "Commander Ohmer State, C. L. Darnell think we have the right," he said. Linton, former Commander, proposed a vote of thanks for Senator the vessels carrying anything illegal Fess' address, that was followed.

CRAIG HARPER SEES NATALIE WITH A BABY

Chapter XLII

Systematically Craig Harper set about finding Natalie. Beverly said she looked shabby. Perhaps she was not working, would be more willing to listen to him. He was really intrigued with Natalie, perhaps more so than he ever had been with a woman. Had she divorced Horace, probably would have tried to persuade her to marry him. But in her equivocal position that was impossible, and he had figured unnecessary.

Craig was not different from many wealthy young men, in that he had an idea he could buy what he wanted. Natalie had repulsed him, refused to listen, been affronted. But if things were going badly with her—she might be more amenable.

Horace recalled her love of a good time, her confession that she felt smothered in her husband's home; her aversion when with him at all times, save during that last motor ride home, when he had so angrily repulsed him. He would find her again, and—perhaps she would be kinder.

Craig went to the boarding house Natalie made her home when he last saw her, but they could give him no information. He figured she would not have gone far from the locality and still lingered in the vicinity hoping to meet her. Yet it was chance after all, that threw her in his way.

Natalie was fond of wheeling the baby on sunny days and often spent hours in the street with her. Unthinking, she ate day went farther than usual, her thoughts on Horace, feeling sad and depressed. So absorbed was she that she did not observe Craig Harper as he stared in amazement at her and the young babe. He knew it lay low in the carriage and a long low whistle escaped him as he went slowly by on the opposite side of the street.

Craig had not been looking for Natalie; he had been looking after some property he owned in the neighborhood. He started toward her, then with a peculiar smile halted.

"A baby!" he muttered. "I wonder who is father's?" Then, as she turned a corner and disappeared, he making no effort to follow, he went on: "No wonder she left Horace—gad it doesn't seem like her. She spurned me quick enough, but perhaps—can it be that it is Horace's, and she is keeping it from him? I'd like to know what happened to make her leave him," Craig said, then with a shrug went on about his business.

Natalie had looked shabby as Beverly Rainford said. When Craig had taken her for that long ride into the country she had taken especial pains with her toilet, had worn the best she had. Her office dress had become worn her whole appearance suggested poverty to one who had only known her as Horace's Crandell's wife, exquisitely dressed and groomed.

Craig Harper was a lover of beauty and Natalie's unusual type had appealed strongly to him. But Craig had only seen that beauty amid luxurious surroundings increased by exquisite surroundings—say only the two or three times he had taken her motoring after she left Horace. And even then her plain suit had been well tailored; her accessories in perfect taste, and still fresh. .... This tired-looking girl woman wheeling the baby had lost her attraction for Craig at least for the present.

Natalie had grave reason to look worried. Etta was now about, able to attend to her own household. Natalie knew Clyde could not afford a maid permanently; she had heard them plan to have a woman one day week to do the heavy cleaning, and Etta would do the rest. Even should she remain for a time longer, without wages, Natalie felt it would be an imposition, that with the high cost of food Clyde could hardly make ends meet as it was.

The thought of leaving her peaceful harbor made her almost ill. Simple as Etta's home was, it was filled with love and happiness, some of which flowed over Natalie's troubled soul.

"If Horace and I could have been

SEARCH STARTS FOR FARM LOAN BONDS, MISSING

Securities Disappear While
In Process of Manufacture It Is Said

SLEUTHS ON CASE

No Chance for Government to Lose From Shortage It Is Believed

Washington, July 10.—Investigation by treasury secret service agents has revealed the actual disappearance of $100,000 of federal farm loan bonds in process of manufacture at the bureau of engraving and printing, Chief Mellon announced.

Irregularities in the bureau have been the subject of almost continuous investigation for more than a year. Reports of serious losses were so persistent that the president at one time took a hand in the situation. By executive order the administration of the big money making plant was changed over night and thirty-odd employees dropped. No adequate explanation of the necessity for such drastic action was ever made. Secretary Mellon passed the incident over with the statement that losses to the government would not be of any "great magnitude."

The loss of the farm loan bonds has brought forth the first official suggestion that government securities actually have been carted away from the bureau. It was at first believed the discrepancy was due to an error in bookkeeping. Secret service agents and treasury accountants, however, were set to work on the case and a careful check was made. The records were found to be correct and the bonds actually missing. What became of them has not been cleared up.

There is one theory that the bonds may have been destroyed as spoilage and no accounting made of them. The secret service chief, however, is more inclined to the theory they were actually carried away.

There is no chance for the government to lose from this shortage, it is declared, as the bonds were in an unfinished state, were not numbered and did not bear coupons on which interest could be collected. They could not be presented for redemption under 25 years, even with forged numbers and signatures. A person holding them might possibly be able to use them as supposed collateral on which to secure a loan from some unsuspecting banker or money lender. Bankers, however, are usually too cautious for such a fraud to succeed.

OFFICER RESENTED PASTOR'S ATTENTION TO WIFE—FIGHTS

Attacks Boston Minister Because He Took Wife Motoring

Boston, July 10.—Resenting attentions to his wife of two months, Lieutenant Wesley M. Hague of the United States navy whipped the Rev. George L. Paine, who had married them, in Paine's office here. Lieutenant Hague then tipped his hat to the minister's typist, apologized for his roughness and backed out.

Rev. Mr. Paine later admitted that he had recently asked Mrs. Hague to go motoring. He then took her to her home in Cambridge. He said his attentions were merely paternal.

As Lieutenant Hague walked into his office the minister extended his hand, but the officer ignored it and shot his fist to the Rev. Mr. Paine's jaw, knocking him down. Rev. Mr. Paine is executive secretary of the Boston Federation of Churches and is a son of the late Robert Treat Paine and a descendant of one of the signers of the Declaration of Independence. He is married and has two sons.

CONTINUE SEARCH FOR MISSING FLYER

Port Stanley, Ontario, July 10.—Intensive search by air and water craft had failed today to reveal the body of Lieutenant T. H. Null, who, it is conceded, perished Thursday, when the naval balloon A-6698 was wrecked on Lake Erie.

The body of Lieutenant Louis J. Roth, Lieutenant Null's companion, which was found dead of exposure, lashed to the balloon basket on the lake, was taken to Cleveland last night by Lieutenant T. H. Strong, on the seaplane Nina of the Aero Marine Ways. The body will be sent from there to the home of Roth's parents at Cedar Rapids.

PERSONNEL OF U. S. ARMY WILL BE REDUCED TO 90,000 MEN

Nation to Have Smallest Armed Force in Proportion to Population of Any Recognized Country in the World—Losing Many Men.

Washington, July 10.—Within the next six months the personnel of the United States army will be reduced to less than 90,000 men—the smallest armed force in proportion to population of any recognized country in the world—War Department officials revealed to International News Service today.

When this estimated minimum is reached on January 1, 1924, America will have fewer men under arms than beaten, demoralized Germany, which, when "disarmed" by General Foch, was left with an army of 100,000 men.

Although Congress, at its last session, capitulated to the extent of authorizing a standing army of 125,000—as between the 115,000 figure favored by the lawmakers and the 150,000 urged by Secretary Weeks—legislation enacted at the same time now threatens to make the military establishment incapable of performing its routine duties, according to members of the general staff.

The army, at present, is losing between 1,000 and 1,500 men a month. By the end of the year it is estimated that approximately 74,000 men will have been discharged, in-

BONDS DELIVERED TO U. S. TREASURY BY BRITISH OFFICER

Text of English Debt Funding Contract is Made Public

Washington, July 10.—The treasury made public the text of the $4,600,000 debt funding contract entered into between the United States and the British governments, as executed on June 18 by Ambassador Geddes for the British and the following day by Secretary Mellon for this country.

The British government last week delivered to the treasury 1,000 bonds of $4,600,000 denominations each dated Dec. 15, 1922, and maturing Dec. 15, 1934, covering the 62-year period, of the funding arrangement. The bonds bear 3 per cent interest the first 10 years and 3 1/2 per cent thereafter.

The contract provides that the bonds shall be payable in United States gold coin or its equivalent in gold bullion, or at the option of Great Britain, not less than 30 days advance notice, in any bonds of the United States issued after April 6, 1917, the bonds to be taken at par and accrued interest.

Upon less than 90 days advance notice Great Britain may at its option pay up to one-half of any interest accruing up to Dec. 15, 1927, in British bonds maturing Dec. 15, 1934. The first interest payment under the funding plan was made by the British on June 15, three days before the contract was executed, in United States liberty bonds.

Principal and interest of all bonds issued by Great Britain on this funding account shall be exempt from all British taxation, so long as they are held by the United States or any non-resident of the United Kingdom. Annual payments follow the schedule laid down in the act of congress last February, authorizing the debt settlement, these ranging from $23,000,000 in 1923 and 1924, to $175,000,000 in 1933 and 1934.

Principal and interest of all bonds issued by Great Britain on this funding account shall be exempt from all British taxation, so long as they are held by the United States or any non-resident of the United Kingdom. Annual payments follow the schedule laid down in the act of congress last February, authorizing the debt settlement, these ranging from $23,000,000 in 1923 and 1924, to $175,000,000 in 1933 and 1934.

Immediately following the completion of the commission's report, John Hays Hammond left for his summer home at Gloucester, Mass. This week he will be joined there by Commissioners Marshall, Howell and Smith, where they will put in a fortnight working on the final report of their bituminous coal investigation. Meanwhile Commissioners Neil and Devine will go on a tour of investigation of the bituminous mining conditions in the west.

TO TAKE ACTION AGAINST CHAMBER

Columbus, July 10.—Action against the Cleveland Chamber of Commerce in Federal Court will be taken by the Prisoners' Relief Society of Washington unless statements alleged to have been made by the commercial organization derogatory to the society are retracted or explained.

This statement was made by E. E. Dudding, president of the society here today on his way to Cleveland. With Attorney Raymond Neudecker of Washington, he will investigate the alleged statements.

Dudding asserted the society lost comment made by the Cleveland Chamber of Commerce.

ALIEN SEAMEN DESERTING SHIPS

Washington, July 10.—Department of labor experts entered upon the task of drafting regulations to deal with the problem presented by alien seamen entering the United States in violation of the immigration act of February, 1917. Thousands of these men have left their ships at American ports and have never returned aboard. High wages and the demand for labor have proved a lure too strong to be resisted.

Columbus, July 10.—James Wilells, 34, colored, of Columbus, will be electrocuted at the Ohio penitentiary early Friday morning for the murder of his mother-in-law, Mary Hayes, on Nov. 24, 1922. No appeal for commutation of sentence has been made.

REPORT INDICATES ACTIVITIES OF RECREATION BODY

Activities of the Community Recreation Association in its efforts in Xenia were set forth in a complete report of the organization made recently by Executive-Secretary, Earl Burgher. The report included a resume of the Industrial Baseball League, showing the organization of six teams to play a ten week's schedule. Three games have already been played. The league is governed by a baseball committee consisting of the captains of various teams. A court of Last Appeal decides protests. The ball fields have been loaned for use.

The Community sings were also referred in the report. Sings are held every Saturday evening at seven o'clock in the Court House Square. Another sing is held at Willow Tree Park every Sunday evening at 8:15 o'clock. An average of 500 people attend every Saturday night and 200 on Sunday evenings.

An institution has been conducted at McKinley School twice a week for five weeks, the report shows. Its purpose is to instruct playground super-visors. An average of 35 people have attended the institutes.

Three entertainments have been held at the playgrounds under the direction of the Association, according to the report. A community sing and entertainment was held June 29 at Orient Hill with Miss Hollenbeck as supervisor.

The following Monday a program was given at Willow Tree Park with Miss Kierman in charge. Employees of the Hoover and Allison company gave program the same evening. An all-day program was held Fourth of July including baseball, games and five events ending with a community sing and patriotic speech in the evening.

The association assisted the American Legion in its flag day program at City Hall. The organization also assisted the Garden Club, Rotary and Kiwanis Clubs in cleaning up the Work House play site.

The Association has also helped the colored residents organize their play centers and the report shows they have a playground opened and are holding their community sings and institutes.

A compilation of activities and attendance was presented by Mr. Burgher.

Total number attending playgrounds ..... 5,300

Total number attending community sings ..... 4,900

Total number attending baseball games ..... 1,000

Total number attending institutes ..... 200

Total ..... 11,400

Estimating the average number of hours at three, the total number of supervised hours to date have been 34,200.

Carl Rutledge, district representative of National Community Service talked on the future of the organization at the board meeting. He spent two days here gathering data on the Xenia organization and said he was impressed with the work to date and recommended its continuance in the winter.

SECOND HEARING OF CASE TUESDAY

Second hearing of the case of the State against Vernon DeAtley, of near Paintersville, on a charge of possessing liquor, was held in the court of Magistrate J. E. Jones Tuesday morning, the court withholding decision after the case.

DeAtley was charged with possessing liquor and was found guilty on his initial hearing. Attorney F. L. Johnson, counsel for the defendant, appealed the case charging error in the hearing proceedings and the appeal was sustained the case being remanded for a new hearing.

Attorney Johnson interjected the Ku Klux Klan into the case at the hearing Tuesday when he asked the defendant if he did not "believe prosecuting witnesses were members of that organization and if they had not burned a cross at his home and left a warning note that they would 'get him' some time ago. Objections to the question interposed by Prosecutor J. K. Williamson were sustained by the court.

The proceedings were interrupted once when Attorney Johnson turned to Dr. R. L. Haines, Paintersville County Coroner, with the allegation that the coroner was advising the prosecutor by shaking his head as the questions were asked.

EX-GOVERNOR IS RUINED BY STREET

New York, July 10.—Three times governor of North Dakota and once a presidential "dark horse," John Burke, a tall, gaunt western-looking man of 60, today is broke—ruined by Wall Street—and facing prosecution.

"I have lost everything, even my life insurance," said Burke.

He went to the district attorney and offered to waive immunity and tell the Grand Jury all he knows of the bankrupt stock brokerage firm of Kardos and Burke.

LEVIATHAN LANDS IN FOREIGN PORT

Cherbourg, July 10.—The giant American steamer Leviathan arrived here shortly before noon today. Eight hundred passengers disembarked and were taken to Paris in four special trains. The ship then continued on its way to Southampton.

The Leviathan left New York July 4. This is her first trip as a passenger liner under the stars and stripes.

YE WAYSIDE INN BOUGHT BY FORD

Sudbury, Mass., July 10.—"Ye Wayside Inn," immortalized by the poet Longfellow was today the property of Henry Ford Detroit automobile manufacturer. It is understood Ford paid about $20,000 for the relics and antiquities alone housed in the ancient hotel.

The inn had been operated continuously since 1656. It is reported will be converted into a historical museum.

GOES TO POOR HOUSE.

Casstown, O., July 10.—Tom C. Harbaugh, famous writer of dime novels and now nearing his eightieth year, took the $1,000 proceeds of the sale of his worldly possessions and wended his way to the Miami county infirmary, where he expects to spend the remainder of his days.

DIES ON HUSBAND'S GRAVE.

Mt. Vernon, O., July 10.—The body of Mrs. Sarah M. Porter, 67, widow of Joseph L. Porter, who died several weeks ago, was found by cemetery employees here on the grave of her husband. A bottle containing poison lay nearby. It is thought grief over the loss of her husband caused the act.

KEEP FIT AND YOU WILL HARDLY FEEL THE HEAT

Thousands of people have found that Dr. Thacher's Liver and Blood Syrup overcomes the depressing effects of the wilting heat of summer and enables them to do their work with a vim and enjoy their hours of play to the fullest extent.

In hot weather the system "lets down," the liver becomes sluggish and the body lacks tone and vitality. So to enjoy as vigorous health in the summer as you do in the cooler months, and to feel yourself vibrating with vim and energy and the joyousness of rich, pure blood coursing through your veins, you must aid Nature in eliminating wastes and in renewing the strength-giving red cells of the blood.

Go to the nearest Thacher agent today. Begin taking Dr. Thacher's Liver and Blood Syrup and learn how easily you can build yourself up so you will hardly notice the hot weather. Thacher's is the pleasant tasting, harmless and guaranteed. Your money refunded if the first bottle does not help you.

WHEN THE RUHR CRUMBLES.

The agreement that has been reached between the French military authorities in the Ruhr and the Krupps to facilitate the removal of 70,000 tons of reparation coal and coke seized last Sunday at one of the Krupps' subsidiary plants is cited by Sir Percival Phillips as "the first indication that the magnates of the Ruhr are inclined to accept the inevitable and come to terms."

This may or may not be a true diagnosis. We will have to await the events of the coming weeks. But in the meantime a strong measure of credence will be attached to Sir Percival's interpretation by all who are familiar from first-hand knowledge with present conditions in the Ruhr.

In the first place, Sir Percival Phillips is a competent and trustworthy observer. He has had a long experience with the Germans. He was on the Western front as a war correspondent from the beginning of the war and in occupied Germany for a long time after the armistice. He has been at Dusseldorf since the French went into the Ruhr and has spent his days traveling about over the whole of the occupied region. Sir Percival is, by the way, a native of Pennsylvania, who became a British subject before the war.

Further credence attaches to the report that the Ruhr industrialists are inclined toward accepting the inevitable because of the personality of Herr von Bulow, the acting head of the Krupp works, who signed the agreement with the French. Herr von Bulow has a broader outlook and a clearer vision than most Germans. He can see beyond the confines of his country. He knows other countries and other peoples and can put himself in their place in analyzing a condition or a situation. This is a rare attainment among Germans, and the lack of it accounts for much of the trouble that has come to the German people in recent years.

Herr von Bulow is a business man of the first rank. He entertains few illusions and knows realities. Before the war he was the representative of the Krupps in England. He was detained there throughout the war, and for a part of the time was interned. He is now the active head of the Krupp works, which employs, at the present moment, between 55,000 and 60,000 men. His one aim and object, as he confessed the other day, is to keep the works going and the men employed. To him and to his associates that object outweighs the outcome of any political controversy between Germany and France.

The Krupps have an immense prestige and authority not only in the Ruhr but throughout Germany. The Krupp workingmen have an esprit de corps, a solidarity and a pride in working at the Krupp plant that is not possessed by the workers for Stinnes or Thyssen, or any of the other great industrialists. It seems a safe assumption at this juncture to reason that if the Krupp management and the Krupp workers find they can work in agreement with the French that other employees and workingmen will follow the example of their business interests demand.

For weeks past intelligent opinion in Germany has recognized that the inevitable end of the Ruhr occupation was a surrender to France. They even have a phrase for it in Germany. They call it "the second surrender." The German public men who know the actual condition as it exists realize that France must save her face; that having gone so far and held on so long she cannot back down. More than one German will tell you, bitterly enough: "We have no face to save; we must give in."

This acknowledgment of the end is not common property either in Germany or in the Ruhr. The public mind has not been prepared for it. Newspapers in the Ruhr are quoted in the dispatches as saying that the Krupp directors are trying to devise means of getting coal under the French agreement by a "back-door route" without the workingman observing, as the latter have refused to work for the French occupying forces.

The whole problem as the Germans see it is when and how the end will come. They hoped for a time at the beginning that the United States and England would exercise pressure upon France. They soon came to see that we would not interfere with France, and since then they have pinned their whole hope on the possibility of help from England. A few weeks ago at Berlin they were seeking a formula that London would adopt. They sought to find some measure of settlement that the English Government would approve as a solution and publicly call upon France to accept. This dream has not yet come through.

Disapproving, as it does, the Ruhr occupation, the British Government has not yet brought itself to the point of taking sides with the Germans as against the French. All that can be said with certainty now is that a phase of the Ruhr occupation is coming to a close. It apparently can end in only one way. What will happen if and when the Germans surrender no man in Europe is wise enough to say or can peer deeply enough into the murk to see.—By Edward G. Lowry, in Public Ledger.

GEMANY: "I'M A VICTIM OF DER LATE WAR, MAAM, CAN YOU GIVE ME A LOAN?"

1903--Twenty Years Ago--1923

Mr. Eli Miller has made the announcement that he will donate the buildings and grounds on East Church Street, formerly the Xenia Female Seminary to the United Presbyterian Church to be used as an old ladies home for that denomination. While the gift has not yet been actually made it will doubtless be formally presented to the next general meeting of the church, and there is no doubt but that the gift will be accepted and the home founded.

There is no smallpox in Xenia again. The last patient has been released from the pest house and the city is free from the disease.

The first new wheat is beginning to make its appearance in Xenia markets. The crop is not as good as a good year as usual.

enamel?"

Answer—Yes; the paint sticks much better if you sandpaper the furniture before applying it. It will also be smoother if you sandpaper the first coat of paint lightly before putting on the second coat.

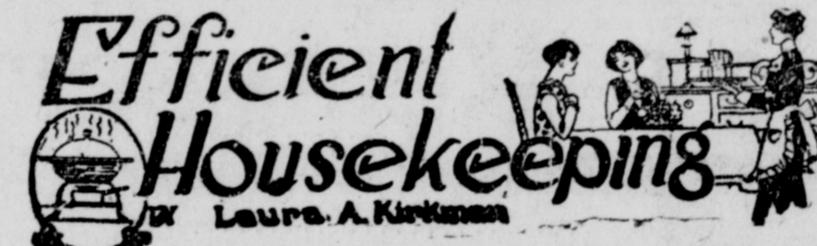

An Interested Reader—"How can I wash a sweater without shrinking it?"

Answer—The safest way is to clean it by rinsing it out in gasoline. This does not shrink it but will clean it perfectly. Do the work out of doors, and let the sweater air several days till the odor is gone.

Mrs. F. S.—"How can I remove machine oil from a carpet?"

Answer—Rub lard on the spot and let stand several hours, then wash the spot by rubbing it hard with a cloth sprung out of cold, soapy water. After a moment, rinse the cloth in warm, clear water and rub the carpet again. A few drops of ammonia in the water may be necessary.

Mrs. L. V. D.—"Have you a cake recipe calling for a whole pound of butter? Also kindly print a recipe for chocolate cookies."

Answer—You probably refer to the following old-fashioned Pound Cake: One pound of butter, one pound of sugar, one pound of ten eggs, one pound of flour, one-half teaspoon of mace and two tablespoons of grape juice. Cream the butter, add the sugar gradually and continue beating; then add the egg-yolks (beaten until lemon colored) the egg-whites stiffly whipped, the flour, mace and grape juice. Beat hard for five minutes and turn into a deep, buttered pan to bake one and one-half hours in a very slow oven. Pound cake is seldom iced.

Chocolate Cookies—Cream together one-third cup of butter and one-half cup of sugar; add one well-beaten egg, one square of unsweetened chocolate melted, one-half teaspoon of vanilla, one and one-half tablespoons of sweet milk and one and one-half cups of pastry flour which have been sifted with one teaspoon of baking powder. (If you wish to use ordinary bread flour, use two tablespoons of cornstarch to cupful of flour. This makes it more like pastry flour.) Chill the dough before rolling it out. Then roll very thin, sprinkle with chopped nuts, cut with a cookie cutter and bake eight minutes in a hot oven.

J. M. B.—"How can I remove ink from a plastered wall?"

Answer—All stationery stores sell commercial ink eradicator, which I think would be successful on the plaster. Follow the directions on the two little bottles which constitute the eradicator.

THE NEW LITTLE GIMME

There's a new little Gimme at our house, A Gimme who's speechless, and yet With a frown or a smile, what she wants for the while, Of the silver moon or a rattle or spoon, Or whatever is new to her eyes. Though she's helpless and small, her old dad understands Just what she means when she holds out her hands. There's a new little Gimme at our house, A new little wanter of things, Of ribbons and lace and bright jewel cases, Of watches and brooches and rings. Though she's not one year old, in her feminine way She knows how to get what she wants day by day.

Today's Talk

ON REVISITING

There are books in my library that I love to revisit—to enter as though new, after the years have trotted along.

And there are many friends whom I love to revisit in the same way—the near companions of other days who refreshed and helped to build within me much of the best that I like to give away.

How like the beautiful gem that is almost hidden within some crude rock, these friends of ours! We have let many of them lie hidden there so far as we have been concerned, rather than to have brought them out, separated them from their crude environment and polished them for their sakes and our own.

For many of our friends are diamonds in the rough as yet—awaiting our call to them for their larger beauty and brilliance.

And then there are those to whom we go on occasion, whose helpfulness and sincere love and sympathy fits us and inspires us anew. And we wish that their "sometimes selves" might come to us as a daily heritage throughout the years.

How beautiful it is to revisit those who mean much to us!

We read our book—that is our best beloved—over and over again, and each time gleam new beauties therein. Why not read and re-read those who seem, and are, so near and dear to us? Why not revisit our friends oftener?

And while we are about it, why not take some little surprise to them—a flower, a book, some trifling remembrance, small in intrinsic value perhaps, but beyond value in spiritual appraisement? Why not?

—We do nothing else but examine eyes and grind lenses to relieve all kinds of eye trouble.

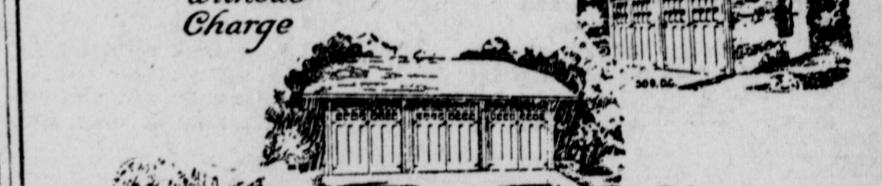

—Bring your eye troubles and broken glasses to us.

BROTHER AND SISTER REUNITED THROUGH HOME REUNION AFTER SEPARATION OF FORTY YEARS

The reunion of the Ex-Pupils' Association of the Ohio Soldiers' and Sailors' Orphans' Home held here last week proved the agency which reunited a brother and sister after 40 years' separation.

The 40-year search of the brother, who is Charles Birch, of Newcastle, Pa., ended when he found Mrs. Phoebe Birch, 42 Olive Street, Dayton. She had been dead.

Mr. Birch lost all trace of his sister, although he made repeated efforts to locate her. His search was fruitless until he attended the Home Reunion last week. There he learned from the institution records that his sister's name was Mrs. Phoebe Miller and that she lived in Dayton.

From Xenia, Birch went directly to the National Military Home, Dayton, where his sister holds a position, and attaches there told him where she lived.

The meeting was a complete surprise for Mrs. Miller who had not believed any of her relatives were living. She recalled vaguely that her father had talked of her three sisters, two now dead and of her brother.

Rev. M. B. Lewis will preach at the Third Baptist Church Wednesday evening for Dorcas Missionary Society.

Look After Gas Leaks

This is a good time to inspect your natural gas house lines for leakage. A considerable amount of gas escapes in many houses from easily prevented leakage.

The best way to make the test is to be sure no fires are burning and then after an hour or so inspect the little dial on your meter. If it has moved you may be sure gas is escaping somewhere.

Easily Located

To locate the leak, cover all joints and couplings with strong suds. If the gas bubbles through, you have found a leak. Don't try to locate it with a match or a torch. You might start a fire.

Usually the leak should receive the attention of a pipe fitter. Sometimes tightening a coupling will take care of it. Leaks at the valves of cooking ranges are not uncommon—and a small leak may cost considerable during the month.

FAIR TO ECLIPSE PREVIOUS AFFAIRS BOARD ANNOUNCES

Members of the Greene County Fair Board are fast completing the arrangements for this year's exhibit July 31—August 3, which they believe will be the greatest Greene County Fair ever held. Many minor improvements about the grounds will add to the convenience and comfort of exhibitors and patrons.

One of the most important innovations is the laying out of a center field in the quarter stretch where saddle horses and all show horses will be exhibited. Displays in the center field will be held every afternoon and will add greatly to the interest of the track program. A Greene County saddle horse class will be a new feature of the saddle classes.

Changes have also been made in the race track arrangements and the speed department is anticipating an unusually fine program. All entries in this department will close July 26.

The Boys' and Girls' Club events include Poultry Clubs, Pig Clubs, Steer Calf Clubs and Stock Judging Teams. A fine list of prizes is offered in all the events. From the boys' and girls' judging live stock teams will be selected to represent Greene County at the State Fair. One team will represent the county in the general stock judging and the other in the dairy cattle judging at Columbus. One demonstration team, consisting of two club members and the club leader from both Food and Clothing Clubs will be sent to the Ohio State Fair and expenses paid. Many of the various boys' and girls' events offer trips to Columbus for Boys' and Girls' Club Week as first prizes.

The fact that the Fair Board has built new cattle sheds and made extra provision for the stock that will be exhibited will be good news to exhibitors throughout this locality.

The various granges throughout the county are preparing for exhibits and this feature of the fair will be an important one. The grange exhibits have developed during the last few years and the friendly rivalry of the various chapters arouses interest.

New, quiet accommodations and rest rooms for women, and various other new improvements about the grounds will add to the comfort and pleasure of fair patrons.

Fair Premium Books can be secured from Secretary J. Robert Bryson, and at various places about the city. Entry blanks for all classes can be secured at the office of the secretary in the basement of the Court House. The secretary's office will be open every day after July 24. Entries in all departments except the speed events will close July 29. The speed entries will close July 26.

SIMPLE DE-SEEDER IS BRAIN CHILD OF LOCAL MERCHANT AND IT WORKS

Something new under the sun! Such is the cry today and every so often the appeal is answered by the fertile mind of a thinker. Witness then the brain child of a local hardware man, who in an attempt to lighten the burden of the housewife has produced a simple but effective contraption known as a cherry seeder—and it works!

D. L. Crawford of the Babb Hardware Company demonstrated to the skeptical writer how a piece of No. 9 gauge iron wire, notched at one end would eliminate the seed from a rosy cheeked cherry, with a simple twist of the wrist, leaving the pie ingredient in its original shape, with none of the terrible mutilation that usually accompanies the de-seeding process of the recognized type.

Mr. Crawford explained that he originated the idea several years ago, and while he has used it at his home for years he has never tried to market it because of the skepticism displayed by the average buyer, who, he says, would not believe that the simple apparatus would accomplish what it is supposed to do. It will though, you can take the writer's word for it.

The invention consists of a piece of iron wire about an eighth of an inch in diameter, some six inches long. At one end two notches at right angles to each other and nearly a quarter of an inch deep are cut with a file giving that end a forked appearance. This fork is placed against the stem of the cherry opposite from the stem and pushed through with a slight twist. The seed is forced out leaving a neat hole through the center, and the cherry is slipped off the opposite end while another is made ready for the pie, made ready for the pie.

ASKS INVESTIGATION.

Cincinnati, O., July 10.—Although members of the motor party of which he was a member reported that Daniel McHale, 24, drowned in the Little Miami River Sunday when his companions were repairing a tire, the dead man's brother, Charles McHale, yesterday asked police to investigate, saying he suspected murder because the party had been in a fight earlier in the evening and none of the members had called to offer condolences.

WOMEN OF MIDDLE AGE

Relieved of Nervousness and Other Distressing Ailments by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Brooklyn, N. Y.—"I first took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound four years ago, and am taking it now for the Change of Life and other troubles and I receive great benefit from it. I am willing to let you use my letter as a testimonial because it is the truth. I found your booklet in my letterbox and read it carefully, and that is how

I came to take the Vegetable Compound myself. It has given me quiet nerves so that I sleep all night, and a better appetite. I have recommended it already to all my friends and relatives."—Mrs. ENGLEMANN, 2032 Palmetto St., Ridgewood, Brooklyn, N.Y.

For the woman suffering from nervous troubles causing sleeplessness, headache, hysteria and the blues, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will be found a splendid medicine. For the woman of middle age who is passing through the trials of that period, it can be depended upon to relieve the troubles common at that time.

Remember, the Vegetable Compound has a record of nearly fifty years of service and thousands of women praise its merit, as does Mrs. Englemann. You should give it a fair trial now.

COMMISSIONERS OF
CLARK COUNTY O. K.
HOSPITAL PURCHASE

A resolution favoring the purchase of the interest of Greene, Champaign and Madison Counties, in the district tuberculosis hospital at Springfield, by Clark County, was passed Monday. Action of the State Board of Health is expected to be taken in a few days, sanctioning the action.

If the State Board sanctions the purchase a bond issue will be placed before the voters of Clark County at the November election to pay for the purchase, it is said.

In the resolution passed Monday by the Clark County Commissioners it was noted that Clark County was the most populous county in the district, and provided the greater part of the funds to maintain the hospital. The resolution read to make the purchase from the other three counties, at the figures named in the appraisement of the hospital, made June 22, by auditors of the four counties. The values of Greene, Champaign and Madison Counties' shares on the institution are: Greene, $7,965.81; Madison, 17,283.08, and Champaign, $7,963.18.

Styles
BY LENORE

As the foundation of many sport frocks is the pleated skirt this season, it has happily afforded almost limitless opportunities for variety in combination with attractive blouses, and has proved an incentive to the creation of charming and very wearable blouses.

Perhaps the colors most in vogue are beige, gray, white and black for the skirts but the brighter shades are equally smart besides adding attractiveness to a country landscape.

One of the blouses most popular this summer because of its adaptability

Even to difficult figures is shown in the sketch above, with its inevitable monogram and snugly fitting hips, and a becomingly cut neck line. Small loops of self-material soften the lines of the revers and give the blouse undoubtedly chic.

When a blouse and skirt are made of the same color, the effect may be delightfully varied by the addition of printed silk in the unusual and clever manner illustrated. This model is carried out in dark blue Georgette crepe, pleated back and front, with blue figured cherry colored crepe. It does not extend beyond the waist line in the back but is gathered instead into the girdle, which ties into a graceful bow at the side.

HOPE OF PERMANENT PEACE SLIGHT SAYS
SENATOR FESS IN ADDRESS TO LEGION

There can be no hope for permanent peace, though a general opinion will lead to war. I have quoted retired Admiral Fisk as saying it will bring peace. U. S. Senator S. D. Fess of Yellow Springs told a small audience at the meeting of Joseph P. Foss, Post No. 95, American Legion, here Monday night.

"Wars grow out of disputed rights and policies," said Senator Foss. "As long as there are nations, disputes will continue. All we can do is to be active in trying to minimize or lessen the chances for war." His address especially emphasized how easy it is for a nation to become involved in war and how the question often hangs on the most delicate diplomatic situations.

Personal reminiscences of trying days in Washington before and at the opening of the war, furnished the beginning of the Senator's address. He told the story of a note written to Mexico by a German cabinet minister named Zimmerman, urging that Mexico induce Japan to join Mexico and Germany in a war on the United States. The note, he said, never reached Mexico as it was overtaken by a Secret Service Agent and an Associated Press Representative.

The government was desperately concerned with the situation even before American boys were in the fighting, he said. Dr. Fess said he suggested when the conscription law was being passed that not only the fighters but capital and labor be conscripted. The question was never seriously discussed, he said, but he declared he believed now the plan should have been followed.

"I don't think there is any hope that this country will have no more wars. Wars are bound to exist," Senator Fess said. "I am glad that people are stirred up to a public opinion against wars, however. The suggestions have been made that we totally disarm. No nation like ours, would ever think of totally disarming. We should keep a police force at least—that is about all we are doing now. The last army bill calls for only 137,000 men and some of these are at the Canal Zone, some at Alaska, Hawaii and the Philippines."

Senator Fess said it had also been suggested that war never be declared except through a referendum of the people. "I don't think that is feasible," he said. It is foolish to talk about the day when there will never be war again. There was never a time when war was more apparent than now. This is due to the acute differences between Great Britain and France. These are more serious because they are economic differences and can't be adjusted by law or agreement. Nations know that if they can't respect economic force will be the most potent force that they can't rise. The interests of Great Britain and France are running in opposite directions. I hope it is impossible for it to lead to war—it would be the fatality of the 15 years," he said.

The meeting was in charge of C. Referring to the trouble the U. S. W. Murphy, Vice Commander, who at the close of Senator Fess', took him to his home in Yellow Springs, turning three-mile limit, Senator Fess said the business session over to Post America is claiming its rights. "I Commander Ohmer Tate, C. L. Darlington, former Commander, pro—"In fact I think we even could seize posed a vote of thanks for Senator Fess' address, that was followed.

CLUB WILL MEET

A date for the official season's opening of the Xenia Country Club will probably be set at a meeting of the women members of the organization to be held at the club house Wednesday afternoon at four o'clock.

Secretary W. C. Craig will address the meeting and will attempt to launch an organization among the women with the view of arranging handicaps for tournaments which are held from time to time during the summer. It is probable that plans will be laid for a ladies' day at the club once a week.

TO ENTER SEMINARY.

Russell Linton, of Bowersville, who graduated this year as honor man in a class of 42 from Wilmington College, will enter Hartford Theological Seminary, Hartford, Conn., according to an announcement recently made. Shortly after his graduation from college young Mr. Linton was elected to the position of principal of the High School at Kingman, Chester Township, Clinton County. When he completed his plans to enter the seminary he resigned the teaching place.

Craig had not been looking for Natalie.

Natalie was fond of wheeling the baby on sunny days and often spent hours in the street with her. Unthanking, she ate day went farther than usual, her thoughts on Horace, feeling sad and depressed. So absorbed was she that she did not observe Craig Harper as he stared in amazement at her and the young babe. He knew it was for a young child because of the way it lay low in the carriage and a long low whistle escaped him as she went slowly by on the opposite side of the street.

Craig had not been looking for Natalie; he had been looking after some property he owned in the neighborhood. He started toward her, then she would find her again, and—perhaps she would be kinder.

Craig went to the boarding house Natalie made her home when he last saw her, but they could give him no information. He figured she would not have gone far from the locality and often lingered in the vicinity hoping to meet her. Yet it was chance, after all, that threw her in his way.
